SEPTA's Bus Revolution

What is Bus Revolution

A stylized diagram of a bus network. It features several colored lines (purple, red, yellow, teal, grey) connecting various nodes (circles and stars) in a networked pattern. The nodes are distributed across the diagram, with some lines being horizontal and others diagonal.

“Blank Slate” redesign of SEPTA’s fixed-route bus network

Why Now?

- SEPTA Forward emphasizes a more fully integrated network
- SEPTA has never looked at its network comprehensively before
- Elimination of transfer penalty in 2020 offers opportunity to rethink how people can use the system and how SEPTA can allocate resources
- Between 2013 & 2019 – ridership dropped 13% but operating costs went up 10% while service got slower and less reliable
- Bus ridership is 30-40% below pre-COVID levels

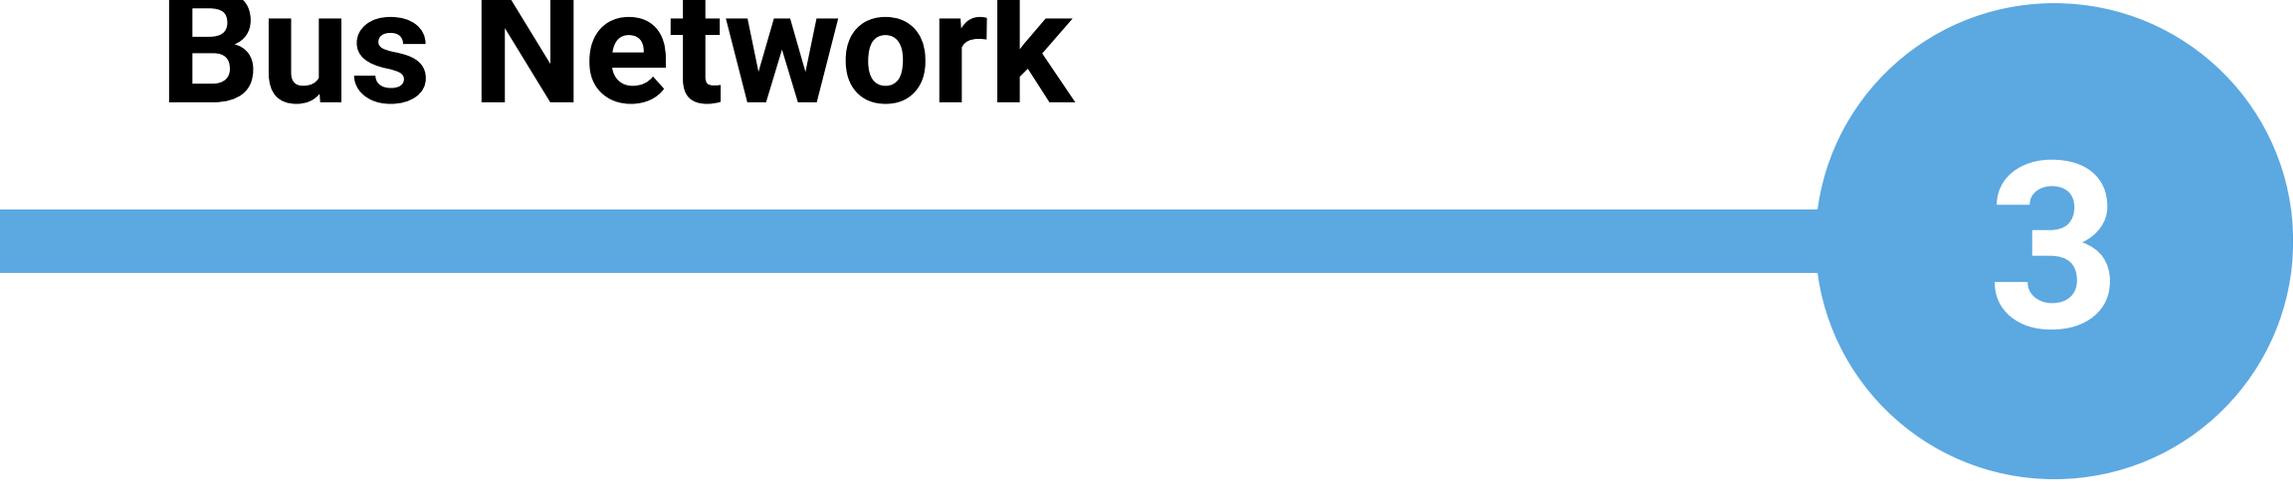

Project Approach

We are here

Introducing the Draft Bus Network

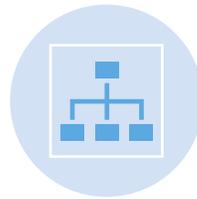

A thick blue horizontal line extends from the left edge of the slide to a blue circle on the right. Inside the circle is the white number 3.

Key Takeaways from Earlier Phases

Duplication in the system makes it confusing and prevents expansion of frequent service

Many routes have complex routings, excessive patterns, and inconsistent schedules

Too much emphasis on peak hour commute trips into Center City

Some areas are overserved based on demand

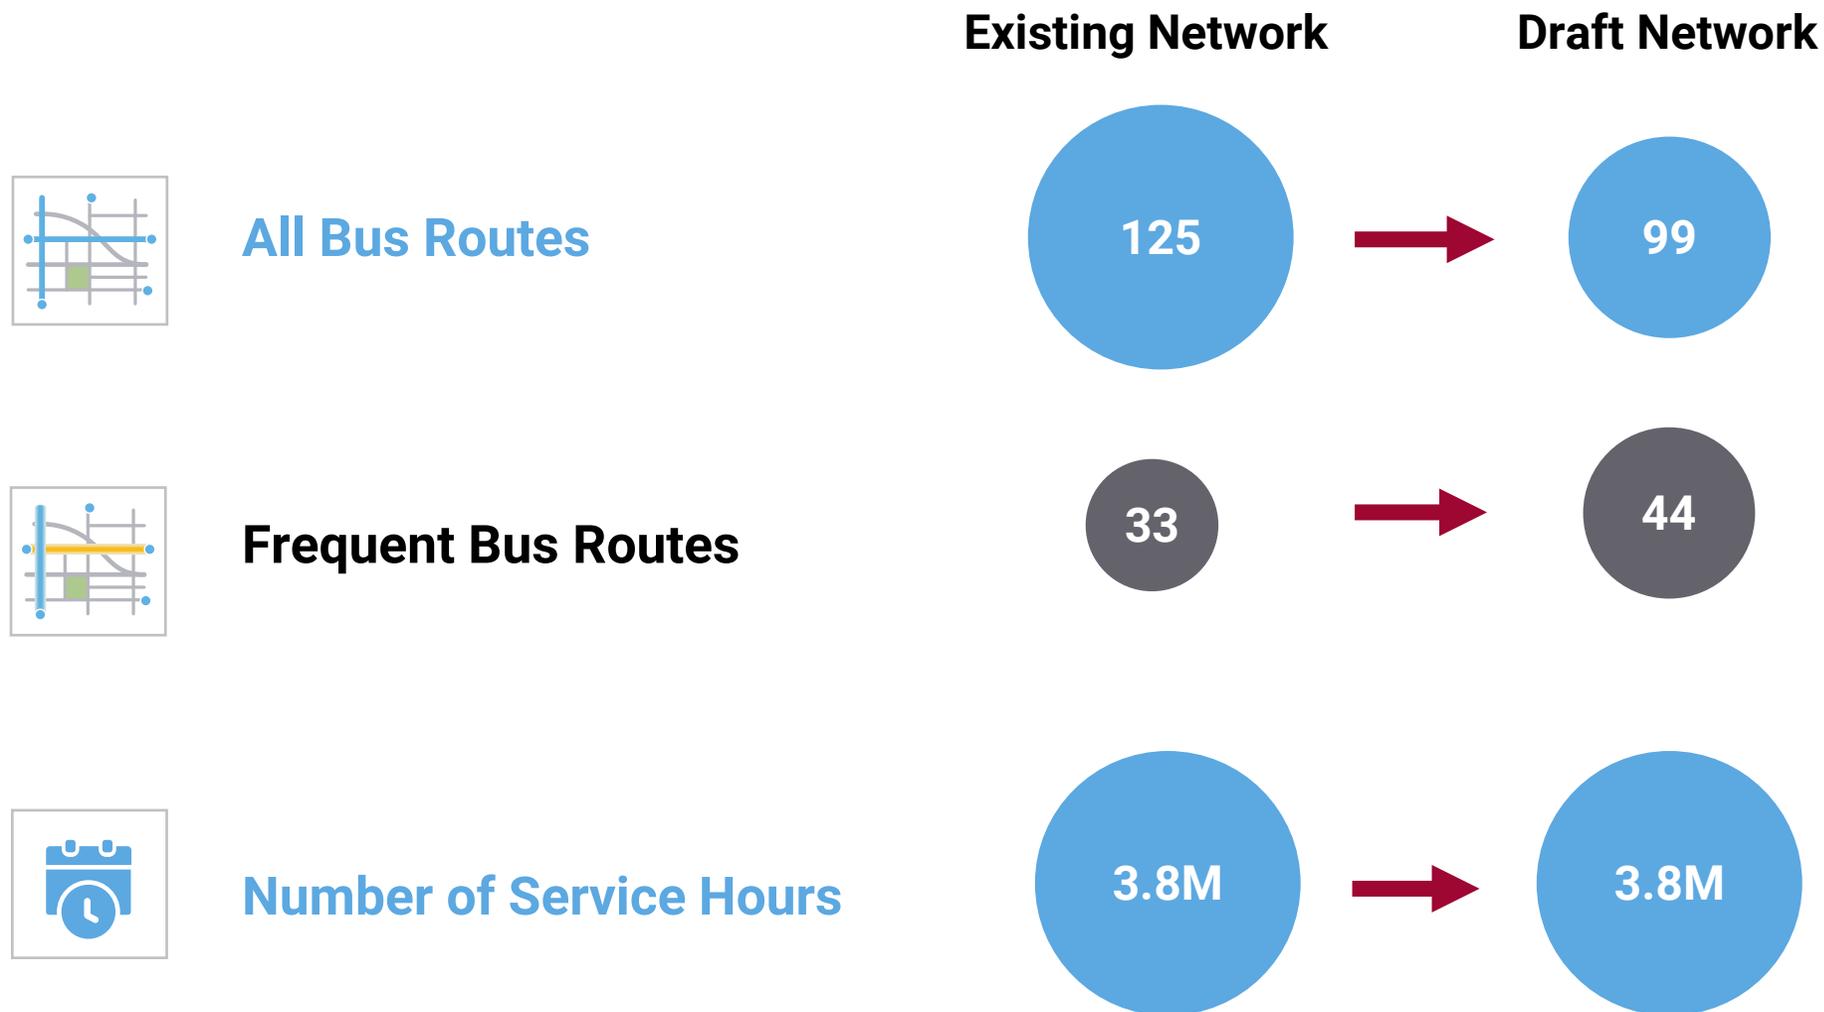

Service is slow and unreliable

Riders prioritize frequency, reliability, and access (not having to walk too far)

Bus Revolution Draft Network

Draft Bus Network

Includes:

Overall fewer routes

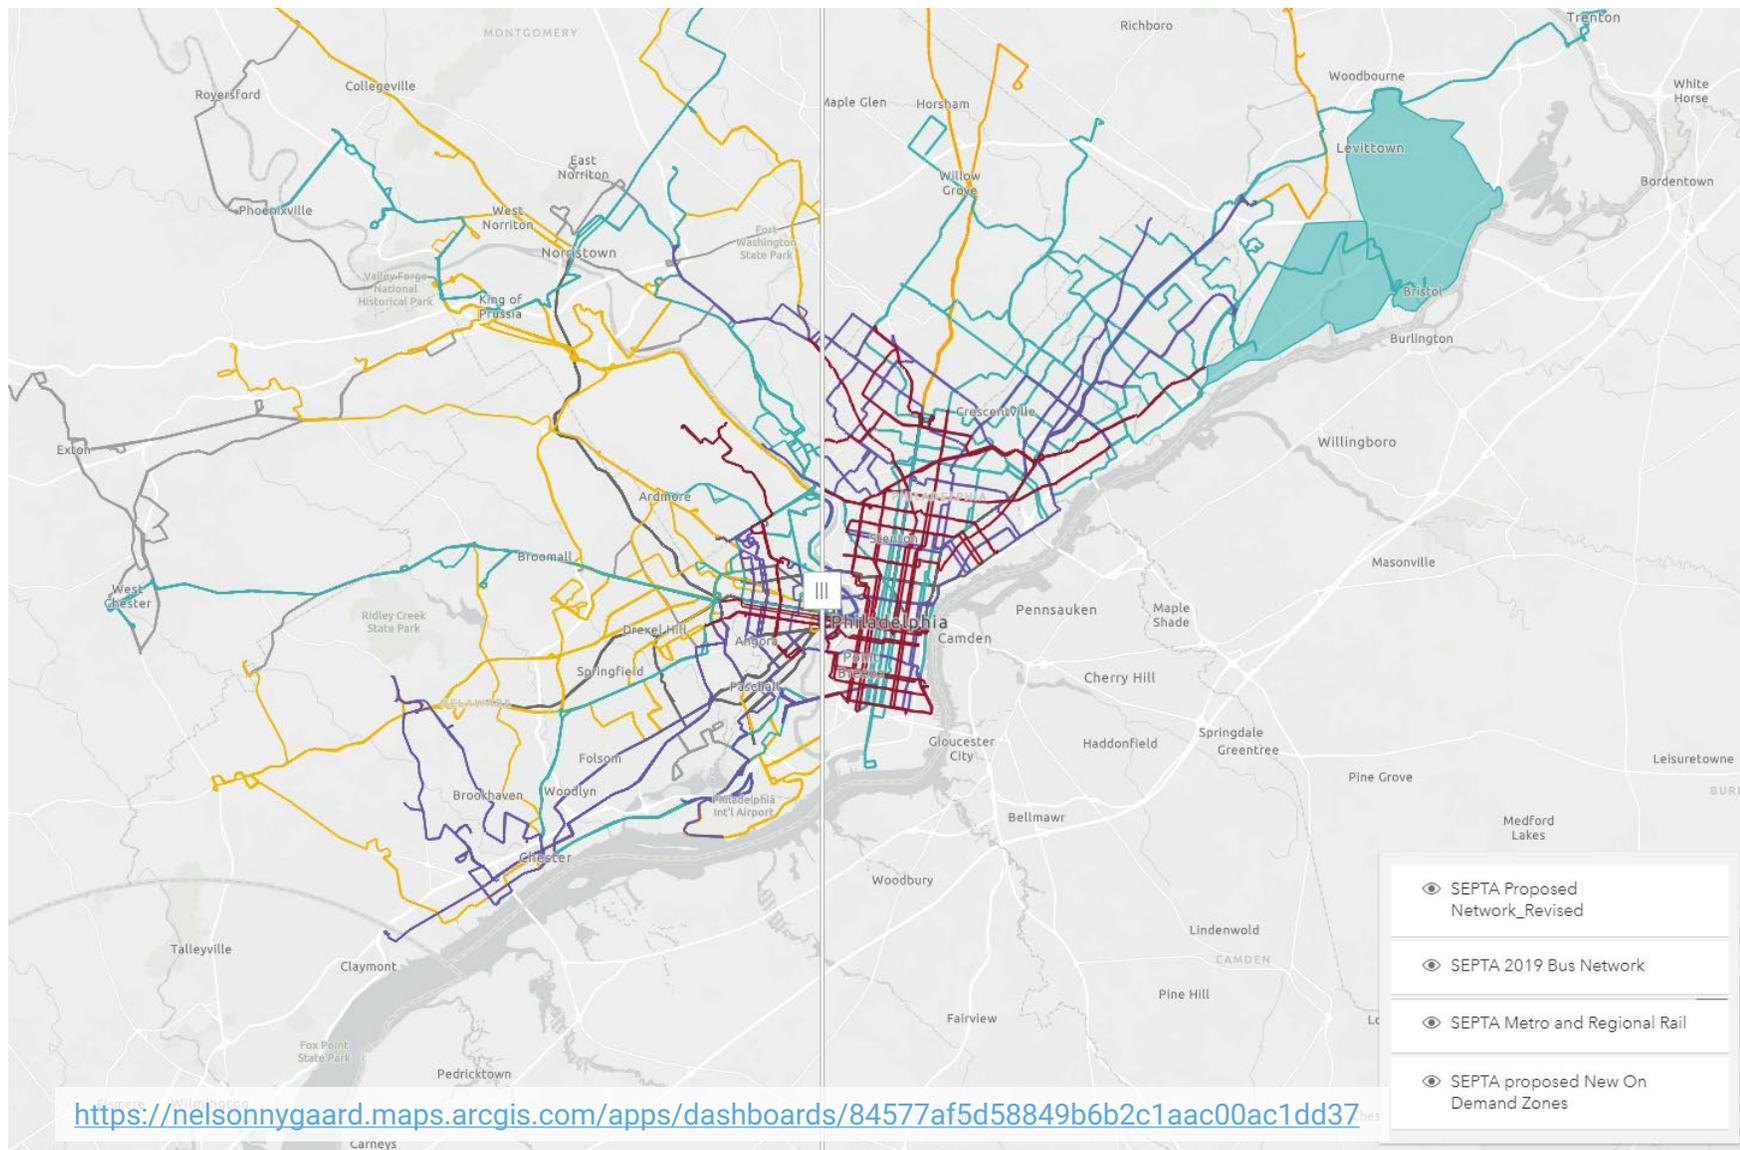

Straighter lines

More red & green routes

Fewer gold routes

Looks more like a grid

On-demand transit zones

Understanding the MAX Series

- The Bus Revolution uses the “MAX series” to talk about bus routes.
- MAX means the maximum time between buses. For example, a 10 MAX route will arrive at least every 10 minutes.
- All bus routes are described as:
 - 10 MAX
 - 15 MAX
 - 30 MAX
 - 60 MAX

} Frequent Bus Service

	10 MAX		Metro
	15 MAX		Trolley
	30 MAX		Regional Rail
	60 MAX		Microtransit Zone

Bus Revolution defines a “frequent” bus route as one that operates every 15 minutes or better.
